Long-Term Care Worker and Home Care Aide Definitions
Long-Term Care Workers

All persons who provide paid, personal care services for the elderly or persons with disabilities, including but not limited to the following:

• Individual Providers paid to provide in-home care services to DSHS clients.

• Direct care workers employed by home care agencies.

• Providers of home care services to persons with developmental disabilities under Title 71A RCW.

• All direct care workers in state-licensed assisted living facilities, adult family homes, as well as respite care providers, and community residential service providers.

• Any other direct care staff who provide home or community-based services to the elderly or persons with functional disabilities or developmental disabilities.
A Home Care Aide is a professional credential issued by the Department of Health (DOH). All newly hired long-term care workers who do not have another professional credential or meet specific exemptions are required to become a certified Home Care Aide.
