Communication Supports At Home/Residential/Community Environment for Adults with Autism

9AM to Noon

This course will review issues of communication and choice for adults with autism at home and strategies for success. We will address communication issues at home for adults with autism around favorite activities, foods, family/staff, and more. We will cover strategies for easy communication supports for home and in the community. We will learn to develop a "First/Then Communication Tool."

Different Learning Styles for Adults with Autism

1PM to 4PM

This course will address how best individuals with Autism learn and retain information. Discuss an overview of cognitive abilities and learning strengths of an individual with autism. Learn why people with autism have difficulty organizing thoughts, tasks, and process. Review why people with autism focus on details and are unable to see the whole, or how things fit together and have difficulty integrating information, extracting meaning and distinguishing among relevant details. In this training, we will develop a Visual Schedule.
