Finding Your Place in the Community – Strategies for Including People with Disabilities

This workshop is intended for anyone who works, spends time with or cares about people with disabilities. Loneliness and isolation are the greatest issues facing people with disabilities. Based on the Make a Difference work by John O'Brien & Beth Mount, this workshop examines the values, foundation & premises for helping people with disabilities become contributing, active members within their communities to help people have quality lives of their choosing. This work helps people forge meaningful and real relationships with community members that builds a durable social network for people and mediates both their need for paid services and the ever present staff turnover in our service system. In addition to the philosophical issues discussed, examples of practical tools for success will be presented, along with interactive exercises that engage participants so that they can begin to incorporate this work into the support they are providing to people.
