PROTOCOL FOR INVOLVEMENT OF AAGs IN REGIONAL FAIR HEARINGS

Revised 1/1/09

While the role of DDD's assistant attorneys general is to provide legal advice and representation to the division, their availability to represent DDD in regional fair hearings is limited to significant cases in which AAG representation is deemed necessary. The AAG will decide what level of involvement is needed and/or available (i.e., one-time consultation, review of case preparation, assistance with writing of legal motions or petitions for review, or assistance and representation at the hearing).

The following are guidelines for consulting with Central Office staff about DDD fair hearings, and for determining when it is appropriate to request AAG involvement.

- A. Except for cases in which AGO staff has agreed to represent DDD at the fair hearing, DDD regional staff will have primary responsibility for coordinating and preparing the case and representing the department at the hearing. When assuming this role, DDD staff can consult with an AAG regarding substantive or procedural issues in particular cases, consistent with this protocol.

If the region believes it can handle the fair hearing without AAG assistance, they are encouraged to do so. AAG assistance can be requested at any stage of the administrative hearing process, including during appeals to department review judges.

- B. For cases in which an AAG has agreed to represent DDD at a fair hearing, the attorney will work collaboratively with DDD staff in preparing the case for hearing. Generally, AAG representation at fair hearings will be limited to cases involving complex disputes, cases with large fiscal implications, significant cases in which the appellant has an attorney, or cases involving issues that could have broader legal implications for the division.

- C. When requesting representation from an AAG, the following steps should be taken:

1. Consult other regional staff with knowledge of the program/decision in dispute. If needed, AAG assistance can be requested by the Fair Hearing Coordinator, the Field Services Administrator, or the Regional Administrator.
2. Prior to calling the AAG, send an email to the AAG (with a copy to the Central Office Fair Hearing Coordinator) with basic information such as:
  - Which RCWs, WACs, or policies are involved with the appeal?
  - What is the basis for the department's decision?
  - What is the basis, if any, for the appellant's appeal?
  - Which employees need to be involved in the hearing?
  - What is at stake in the case? What are the implications of an adverse decision?
3. Consult with the Central Office Fair Hearings Coordinator on WAC-related issues and defense strategy consultation. In cases where the appellant is represented by an attorney, the regions can contact the AAG directly to discuss the need for AAG involvement.

4. When possible, the AAG will draft the motions and appeals.
- D. Regional Fair Hearing Coordinators are expected to participate in the AAG's monthly Fair Hearings conference call and the quarterly ADSA Fair Hearing Training to stay informed on current issues/procedures.
