What is a public record?

Any writing containing information relating to the conduct of government or the performance of governmental function.

Writing includes pretty much anything recorded for communication...photographs, voice recordings, GPS coordinates, text messages, sticky notes.

RCW 42.56.010(4)

Prepared, owned used, or retained by any state or local agency regardless of physical form or characteristics.

RCW 42.56.010(3)

In Nissen, the Supreme Court held that an elected county prosecutor’s work-related text messages prepared on his private cell phone in his official capacity and within the scope of his employment were public records subject to disclosure under the PRA. 183 Wn.2d at 882-83, 888. The court rejected the argument that an agency employee can create a public record only when using agency property. Id. at 877. The court stated that “employees can use their own property and still be within the scope of their employment.”

In Vermillion, this court held that e-mails a Puyallup City Council member sent and received on his personal computer through a personal e-mail account were subject to disclosure under the PRA if they otherwise met the definition of a public record.

If an employee claims that information in personal accounts are not public records, he or she must submit an affidavit or declaration stating facts sufficient to support that claim. Nissen, 183 Wn.2d at 886.
