

Juveniles Referred to Prosecutor

The county prosecutor is responsible for prosecuting juvenile cases. The prosecutor decides whether to divert a case, whether charges should be filed and which offenses should be charged. A juvenile may be involved in more than one case within a year depending on the number of times the juvenile offends. A case may involve more than one charge/offense depending on the circumstances of the event and the decision of the prosecutor.

Juveniles who commit minor/first offenses may be offered diversion instead of being taken to court. Juveniles who do not complete a diversion agreement, refuse diversion or are refused diversion are charged in juvenile court.

In 2004, 42,284 cases were referred to the prosecutor for criminal offenses. (This is a 27.3 percent decrease from 1995). Cases referred to diversion comprised 38 percent of the cases; charges were filed on 38 percent of the cases; and on 20 percent of the cases there was no action taken.

The rate of referrals to diversion was fairly constant from 1988 to 1992 in the range of 45 to 49 percent of those cases referred to the prosecutor. The rate decreased from 1993 to 1996 (from 42% to 37%), and remained relatively unchanged from 1997-2004 (38%).

The proportion of cases where charges were filed has increased from 29 percent in 1988 to 38 percent in 2004, an increase of 31 percent. The proportion of cases for which no action was taken in 2004 was 21 percent. This figure has remained fairly constant from 1989 to 2004, ranging from 21 percent to 26 percent.

The courts remanded juveniles to adult court in less than one percent of the cases charged in 2004, relatively no change throughout an eight-year period.

In 2004, just over six percent of the juvenile cases where a youth was found to be guilty were sentenced to the Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration (JRA). This figure continues a steady decrease from the 1994 figure of 13 percent. Ninety-three percent of the cases were sentenced to detention, probation, community service, community supervision, counseling, fines, restitution, or the Consolidated Juvenile Services program.

During 2004, 116 juvenile cases (less than one half of one percent of those juvenile cases referred to the prosecutor) were remanded to adult court. Counties where ten or more juvenile cases were remanded to adult court were Columbia (13), Mason (42), Spokane (22), and Thurston (10).

Of the juvenile cases referred to diversion, 77 percent completed diversion, four percent are in process, and 19 percent did not complete, refused or were refused diversion. Of those diversion cases where juveniles did not complete the diversion agreement, refused or were refused diversion, 43 percent resulted in charges being filed and cases referred to court.

Gender

Sentencing within the standard range was the most common disposition. Ninety-eight percent of the juvenile cases adjudicated guilty were sentenced within the standard range. Two percent were sentenced outside the standard range (judge declared a manifest injustice [M.I.]). Of the cases sentenced outside the standard range, Eighty-seven percent of the cases were above the standard range (MI up) and thirteen percent of the cases were below the standard range (MI down). No change from the 2003 rates.

Males are referred to the prosecutor at a higher rate than females. Seventy percent of the juvenile cases referred to the prosecutor in 2004 involved males. Eighty-two percent of the juvenile cases remanded to adult court involved males (down from 96% in 2003).

Cases involving females are referred to diversion at a higher rate than males. Fifty percent of cases involving females were referred to diversion as compared to 33 percent of cases that involved males.

Cases referred to the prosecutor that involved females were much less likely to be charged (28 percent for females, compared to 43 percent for males in 2004). From 1995 to 2003 there was a steady increase in the percent of cases involving females that resulted in charges being filed (from 22 percent to 29 percent.) There was no action on 21 percent of the cases for males and 20 percent for females.

Race and Ethnic Distribution

Reporting of race and ethnicity has increased since 1990. Consequently, the rate of increase in cases referred to the prosecutor, diversion, etc., by race or ethnicity may be overstated.

Of the cases where race or ethnicity was recorded in 2004, 70 percent of the cases referred to the prosecutor were White, eight percent were Black, five percent were Native American, fifteen percent were Hispanic, two percent were Asian American, and nine percent were unknown/other.

Of the juvenile cases referred to diversion where race or ethnicity was recorded, 66 percent of the juveniles were White, seven percent were Black, three percent were Native American, twelve percent were Hispanic, three percent were Asian American, and six percent were unknown/other.

Of the juvenile cases remanded to adult court where race was recorded 63 percent of the juveniles were White, 17 percent were Black, six percent were Native American, 10 percent were Hispanic, four percent were Asian American, and six percent were unknown/other.

In 2004, 10,754 juvenile cases were sentenced within the local standard range. Of those cases where race or ethnicity was recorded, 68 percent were White, nine percent were Black, five percent were Native American, 12 percent were Hispanic, and none were Asian American.

In 2004, 252 juvenile cases were sentenced outside the standard range (judge declared a manifest injustice or M.I.). Of those cases in 2004, 165 were sentenced outside the standard range to the Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration (JRA). Of the 165 juvenile cases sentenced, 72 percent were White, seven percent were Black, six percent were Native American, 14 percent were Hispanic, and one percent was Asian American.

Data on juveniles referred to King County Juvenile Court were provided by the King County Office of the Prosecuting Attorney. Data on gender and race/ethnicity are not available.

King County Juvenile Court Case Results

In 2005 8,065 juveniles were referred to the prosecutor in King County. Of this number 2,669, (33 percent) were referred to diversion; charges were filed on 4,017 (50 percent); and there was no action on 1,353 (17 percent). During this time, 26 juveniles were remanded to adult court.

King County data was not provided for 2004 and 2003. Cases referred to the prosecutor decreased 50 percent over the last ten years (1996-2005) and 12 percent over the last five years (2001-2005). Cases referred to diversion decreased by 57 percent over ten years and 16 percent over five years. Cases remanded to adult court decreased by 37 percent over the last five years.

Of the total juvenile referrals to diversion in 2005, 92 percent completed diversion or had no charge filed, and 43 percent did not complete, refused or were refused diversion (includes carryover cases from the previous year). Ninety-four percent of those diversion cases where the juvenile did not complete the diversion agreement, refused, or was refused diversion resulted in charges being filed.

Of the juveniles adjudicated in 2005, 67 percent resulted in a guilty finding (found guilty or plead guilty), less than one percent were found not guilty; and 33 percent of the charges were dismissed.
